“Hi Diego,

Thank you again for such an interesting and enjoyable morning! My brain was sparking over and over, I loved the combination of practical knowledge about how to identify and use the plants, and your unpacking of the political/ethical/contextual dimensions of foraging...

Food for thought.”

“Thank you so much, Diego, for your storytelling, knowledge and good humour .you have made it easy to remember. We really enjoyed spending time today learning about this country and the plants that live with us. I am fired up to learn more and try some new tastes.

Thank you for giving back some lost culture and we entirely agree that whatever resources we have would be better used than destroyed.

I will recommend you to everyone.”

Diego - you were so passionate about weeds, and it really caused us to step back and think about what we consume and why. I love your attitude of using our resources sustainably, and delving into using plants beneficial to us, that most people ignore. You made the journey lots of fun.

I have made an observation about what I have learned from you. By introducing the dimension of the different tastes of the different plants into my experience I'm am relating to my environment in a totally different and much richer way. When I walk into my backyard I no longer see different shaped green things, I am distinguishing between plants by look and taste.

Thank you for giving me those eyes.
